Friday 28th February 2020

On Friday, we hosted one of our incredibly popular Community Writing Events, in which families of our children were invited to come and join us in school for a writing session. The stimulus this time around was a display entitled 'Medals,' a deliberately history-linked focus that also gave us the opportunity to talk about different types of medals and share some of the medals awarded to members of our community. The outcomes demonstrated in children's writing – from poetry to stories and instruction writing – have been simply wonderful, with many examples being shared in Friday's special whole-school Gold Book Assembly. We would like to thank the (over) 128 members of our Sandgate community who joined us on the morning and thoroughly look forward to our next event – hopefully in some warmer weather!
