

Dear Ladybirds and Bumblebees,

This weekend, can you think about your maths learning this week and compare the weight of objects around the house? Remember, weight measures how heavy or light something is. Maybe you could compare and order some of your favourite toys, or some of the food items from your kitchen? What weighs more? What is the heaviest? What is the lightest? You could take photos or draw some pictures to explain what you find out!

Week beginning 23rd January 2023

Dear Parents,

Children have been harnessing their inner superhero and have created some fantastic learning this week. They have written their innovations of the story, Superworm and have also completed their Hot Task. We were so impressed with how well they did. We look forward to you seeing their work at the Book Share. In Maths, we have thought about weight and children have been comparing the weight of different classroom objects. We even used some scales! We have also continued to work on recognising and ordering numbers up to 5, noticing that each number is one more than the previous number.

We have been talking a lot recently about who is special to us, and what we do with special people. This has linked nicely to work we have done on feelings, and how we can manage these. We have also been looking at some aerial photos to see if we can spot how areas have changed over time.

Thank you all for your support with the launch of our Marvellous Me app. We are starting to send out messages, badges and activities so please keep an eye out. The children's excitement about this has been fantastic and we have had lots of enthusiasm about badges.

In book bags on Monday you will find a letter all about sharing books for you and your child to read together at home. These will be different books to the current ones on the phonics scheme going home. Sharing books will work alongside phonics books. Please look out for the letter for more information about this.

Finally, as we move towards the end of term, we will be thinking about "people who help us". If you are a nurse, doctor, vet, police officer, shop assistant, etc. and would be interested in giving a short talk, or bringing in some photos of what you do, please let the class teacher know. In previous years, when parents have done this, it's always been really well received by all the children.
