1. Introduction

The Equality Act 2010 replaced all previous equality legislation such as the Race Relations Act, Disability Discrimination Act (DDA) and Sex Discrimination Act. The Equality Act 2010 provides a single, consolidated source of discrimination law, covering all the types of discrimination that are unlawful. It simplifies the law by removing anomalies and inconsistencies that had developed over time in the existing legislation, and it extends the protection from discrimination in certain areas. The law on disability discrimination is different from the rest of the Act in a number of ways. The overriding principle of equalities legislation is generally one of equal treatment. However, the provisions in relation to disability are different in that you may, and often must, treat a disabled person more favourably than a non-disabled person.

Definition of Disability:

Equality Act 2010:

You're disabled under the Equality Act 2010 if you have a physical or mental impairment that has a 'substantial' and 'long-term' negative effect on your ability to do normal daily activities.

For the purposes of the Act, these words have the following meanings:

- 'substantial' means more than minor or trivial;
- 'long-term' means that the effect of the impairment has lasted or is likely to last for at least twelve months (there are special rules covering recurring or fluctuating conditions);
- 'normal day-to-day activities' include everyday things like eating, washing, walking and going shopping.

Disability can arise from a wide range of impairments which can be:

- sensory impairments, such as those affecting sight or hearing
- impairments with fluctuating or recurring effects such as rheumatoid arthritis, myalgic encephalitis (ME), chronic fatigue syndrome (CFS), fibromyalgia, depression and epilepsy
- progressive, such as motor neurone disease, muscular dystrophy, and forms of dementia
- auto-immune conditions such as systemic lupus erythematosus (SLE)
- organ specific, including respiratory conditions, such as asthma, and cardiovascular diseases, including thrombosis, stroke and heart disease
- developmental, such as autistic spectrum disorders (ASD), dyslexia and dyspraxia
- learning disabilities
- mental health conditions with symptoms such as anxiety, low mood, panic attacks, phobias, or unshared perceptions; eating disorders; bipolar affective disorders; obsessive compulsive disorders; personality disorders; post-traumatic stress disorder, and some self-harming behaviour

- mental illnesses, such as depression and schizophrenia
- produced by injury to the body, including to the brain

It is important to remember that not all impairments are readily identifiable. While some impairments, particularly visible ones, are easy to identify, there are many which are not so immediately obvious, for example some mental health conditions and learning disabilities.

Progressive Conditions:

A progressive condition is one that gets worse over time. People with progressive conditions can be classed as disabled. However, you automatically meet the disability definition under the Equality Act 2010 from the day you're diagnosed with HIV infection, cancer or multiple sclerosis.

What is not counted as a disability

There's guidance on conditions that are not covered by the disability definition, for example addiction to non-prescribed drugs or alcohol.

Reasonable Adjustments:

The school has a duty to make reasonable adjustments for disabled pupils:

- When something we do places a disabled pupil at a substantial disadvantage to other pupils, we must take reasonable steps to avoid that disadvantage;
- We will be expected to provide an auxiliary aid or service for a disabled pupil when it would be reasonable to do so, and where such an aid would alleviate any substantial disadvantage the pupil faces in comparison to their non-disabled peers.

The school will not be expected to make adjustments that are not reasonable. With regard to what may be 'reasonable', the Code of Practice will include factors that should be taken into account. It will be for the school to decide the reasonableness of adjustments based on the individual circumstances of each case. Factors to consider may include the financial or other resources available, the effectiveness of the adjustment, its effect on other pupils, health and safety requirements, and whether aids have been made available through the SEND route. The reasonable adjustments duty is intended to complement the accessibility planning duties, and the existing Education Health Care Plan (EHCP) provisions, under which local authorities have to provide auxiliary aids and services where an EHCP details that provision. When a disabled pupil does not have an EHCP (or the plan does not provide the necessary aid) then the duty to consider reasonable adjustments and provide such auxiliary aids will fall to the school. As in the previous legislation the school is not under a duty to make alterations to the physical environment.

2. Aims of the Accessibility Plan

Schools are required to have an Accessibility Plan detailing how they will improve access to the physical environment, increase access to the curriculum for disabled pupils, and how they will improve the availability of accessible information to disabled pupils.

The Accessibility Plan is listed as a statutory document of the Department for Education's guidance on statutory policies for schools. The Plan must be reviewed every three years and approved by the Governing Body. The review process can be delegated to a committee of the Governing Body, an individual or the Head.

Sandgate Primary School is committed to equal opportunities for all and our Accessibility Plan outlines our intention to remove barriers for disabled pupils and to:

- increase the extent to which disabled pupils can participate in the different areas of the national curriculum;
- increase access to extra-curricular activities and the wider school curriculum;
- improve the physical environment to enable disabled pupils to take better advantage of education, benefits, facilities and services provided; and

- improve the availability of accessible information to disabled pupils.

Furthermore, under our equality duties, wherever possible, Sandgate Primary School intends to make reasonable adjustments to the physical environment of its school to enable any disabled person (pupil, parent/carer, employees or visitor) to access facilities and services and improve the availability of accessible information to any disabled person.

Sandgate Primary School is committed to providing an environment that enables full curriculum access that values and includes all pupils, staff, parents and visitors regardless of their education, physical, sensory, social, spiritual, emotional and cultural needs. They are committed to taking positive action in the spirit of the Equality Act 2010 with regard to disability and to developing a culture of inclusion, support and awareness within the school.

Sandgate Primary School aims to treat all its pupils fairly and with respect. This involves providing access and opportunities for all pupils without discrimination of any kind.

The key objectives of our Accessibility Plan are as follows:

- To make all reasonable adjustments to reduce and eliminate barriers so that all pupils have equitable access to the curriculum and can participate fully in the school and wider community.
- To make all reasonable adjustments to provide an accessible environment which values and includes all pupils, staff, parents and visitors regardless of their education, physical, sensory, social, spiritual, emotional and cultural needs.
- We are committed to challenging negative attitudes about disability and accessibility and to developing a culture of awareness, tolerance and inclusion.
- To provide all pupils with a broad and balanced curriculum, differentiated and adapted to meet the needs of individual pupils, endorsing the key principles in the National Curriculum Framework which underpin the development of a more inclusive curriculum:
 - setting suitable learning challenges;
 - responding to a pupil's diverse learning needs;
 - overcoming potential barriers to learning and assessment for individuals and groups of pupils.

Pupils with SEND will be given access to the curriculum supported by the school's specialist SEND provision and in line with the wishes of their parents and the needs of the individual. The school curriculum is regularly reviewed by the Leadership Team and Curriculum Hub Leaders to ensure that it is accessible to pupils of all levels and abilities and supports the learning and progress of all pupils as individuals. This includes learning outside the classroom.

It is the aim of the School to ensure that all resources and SEND provisions are being used effectively and efficiently within the school setting in order to support the taught curriculum and enable pupils to reach their full potential.

The school does this by:

- keeping staff fully informed of the special educational needs of any pupils in their charge including sharing progress reports, medical reports and teacher feedback
- providing regular training and learning opportunities for staff on the subject of SEND and SEND teaching; school staff should be up to date with teaching methods that will aid the progress of all pupils including those with SEND
- making use of all class facilities and space
- using in-class provisions and support effectively to ensure that the curriculum is differentiated where necessary
- making sure that individual or group intervention is available where it is felt that pupils would benefit from this provision

- any decision to provide group or 1:1 teaching outside the classroom will involve the SENDCO in providing a rationale and focus on flexible teaching. Parents will be made aware of any circumstances in which changes have been made
- setting appropriate individual targets that motivate pupils to do their best, and celebrating achievements at all levels
- listening to pupils' views and taking them into account in all aspects of school life.

Increase access to the curriculum for pupils with a disability	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Sandgate Primary School offers a clearly sequenced curriculum that builds progressively within and across years. Substantive and disciplinary threads are embedded across the curriculum. Curriculums are adapted for some pupils with a disability so that they gain the essential substantive and disciplinary knowledge, making connections to prior knowledge. Oracy sits at the centre of both substantive and disciplinary knowledge, since it enables pupils not only to acquire knowledge but also to practise thinking, questioning, and reasoning in subject-specific ways. Oracy is high profile within Talk for Writing and Talk for Reading, with the aim to now further embedding oracy throughout the curriculum to support all pupils develop, connect, and deepen these types of knowledge. We use resources tailored to the needs of children who require support to access the curriculum. An example includes manipulatives in mathematics.
